By Telegraph to The Times.

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] Cashier McDonald of the Pacific Bank said, today, regarding the John ing the Bank of Madera and the John Brown Colony, in Fresno county, that the Madera Bank had been reorganized, and is now distinct from any connection with the colony.

"The reorganization of the Madera Bank occurred about six weeks ago," he said, "and it is now on a safe financial footing, with assets and liabilities balancing at $100.000. The bank was organized and the John Brown Colony was started by W. F. Baird and John Brown about three years ago. The colony consists of 30,000 acres of good land, and there are about 300 set-tlers on it. Baird and Brown put in a great deal of money into the cultivation of the colony, and we were finally obliged, owing to overdrafts on the Pacific bank, and in order to pro-tect our interests to make an investi-gation. We found a number of irregu-larities due to the close connection between the bank and colony, but nothing of a sensational character, and we secured ourselves by having the overdrafts turned into bills receivable, and securing an interest in the colony. The bank is now re-organized with Return Polyarts, a wealth against the form Roberts, a wealthy capitalist of Madera, as president, and its connection with the colony having ceased, no further complications need ensue.

"The colony lands are valuable, and have been well improved, and we do not intend that the settlers shall suffer any loss by reason of any transaction between the bank of Madera and the Pacific bank through the operation of Baird.

The complainst against them charge some with resisting an officer, others with carrying concealed weapons and others with disorderly conduct. Several police officers were examined and their evidence was practically the same as the story of last ight's arrest. In the afternoon the examination of the defendants began. Only four of them were got through with before adthem were got through with before ad-journment. The line of defense is to prove that the meeting last night had no connection with any Anarchistic movement whatever, being merely a regular business meeting of the Social-ist Publication Company.

Both Mayor Washburne and Chief McClaughry advance the belief that the object of th meeting last night was not to commit any direct acts of violence, but to keep up an anarchistic agitation to convince foreigners that Chicago will not be a safe place to come to in the World's Fair year.

The Anarchists, he said, made remarks in their speeches recently which justi-fles the conclusions he has drawn. He is massing troops and preparing warships for an early attack on the revolutionists. He has applied to the government of Uruguay for permission to allow the passage of troops through that country in order to reach the scene of the uprising in Rio Grande do Sul. Los Angeles Bankers on the Ground and Making Investigations-Coin Sent from This City to Aid Other Banks There.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 13 .- By the Associated Press.] The suspension of the California National Bank continues to the absorbing theme of conversation.

There were no new sensational developments today. There is no disposition to lay any particular blame on anybody, and there is tonight a very general feel ing that the situation is improving. The three other banks met all demands with their usual promptness today, and there is nothing to indicate that any failure will follow the California Bank's trouble. Public confidence in J. W. Collins, the president, and S. G. Havermale, one of the best known directors, is very great, and the people believe that between them and the many friends of the embarrassed institution everything will be brought around all right, There was nothing in the nature of a run on any of the other banks during the day and the result is that the public mind is compartively at Bank Examiner W. H. Chamberlain arrived this morning and will begin an investigation tomorrow. A very good feature of the situation is that George Sims of the Lombard Trust Company of London, who came to this city to look about for investments for his com-pany, and who expected to become inter-ested in several matters with President Collins, examined the bank today and leclared if Bank Examiner Char lain will give him authority to do so, he will bring out money enough from New York and London to reëstablish the bank on a sounder basis than ever.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held Last Evening.

Reports of Officers and Committees Presented.

The Chamber Out of Debt, with Money in Bank.

Address by ex-Mayor Workman on the Salt Lake Road-A Angeles.

The Chamber of Commerce met in fegular monthly session last night with President Wells in the chair and Secretary Willard present. NEW MEMBERS.

The following new members were elected: Ad Frese & Co., V. G. Baker, J. H. Martin, C. H. Sessions, C. H. Alford, D. Botiller, Mariner J. Kent, Wilson Chamberlain, M. S. Hewes, Thomas R. Bard, E. S. Hubbard, Ludwig & Wagner, Alfred Moore, Charles C. Lamb, Hugh E. Smith.

especially for the manufacture of steel. In this connection the committee is of the opinion that ship-yards should be established here. In closing its report the committee says:

The Government will doubtless equip our navy with vessels of the best modern design, but we have no works, as yet, on this Coast, which can construct the entire vessel. The Monterey now being built at San-Francisco required, we are told, a 24-ton casting, which it was found necessary to have made in Pittsburgh, and brought by rail across the continent. When the Government advertised for bids for 100 guns of a certain size, Carnegie & Co. were the ernment advertised for blds for 100 gurs of a certain size, Carnegle & Co. were the only concern in the country that could make a bid, and we are told it will take two years to complete the first gun and ten years to complete the entract. If we have the ore, and the fuel, why should we not have also the works on this Coast?

If a modern snip-yard was established in San Pedro, perhaps the Government would become sufficiently interested to make adequate appropriation for improving the harbor. While your committee regret that nothing has come of these negotiations, it is not without hope that something will be accomplished in the near future,

He said:

Gentlemen: At the solicitation of your worthy president. I have consented to address you this evening. As you are all aware that I am not a public speaker, I will place my remarks in the shape of a talk.

My dbject in appearing before you is to awaken and arouse the people of Los Angeles and Southern California in general to the necessity of taking some action in a matter of great importance at this time.

Realizing the advantages arising from railroad communication between Los Angeles and Sait Lake City, I left here early in October for the purpose of attracting the attention of capitalists in the east to the building of this line at an early date, and in October for the purpose of attracting the attention of capitalists in the east to the building of this line at an early date, and to examine the resources of the country through which such road would pass.

I proceeded at once to St. Louis, Mo., to interview the enterprising gendemen now building the Terminal Railway of this county, of which forty-five miles are now completed and in operation. After having received proper encouragement from the gentlemen above referred to, I had interviews with the projectors of several lines of road extending in this direction through Southern Utah, and they all expressed themselves in favor of extending the roads into Los Angeles and Southern California. Now, it is of the utmost importance that the people of Los Angeles city and county, also of San Bernardino county and Southern California generally, should be united in taking proper action toward securing the immediate construction of this road. Why wait five or ten years for it to be built, when by the little aid and assistance we can give them, we may secure its building at once, perhaps its completion before the World's Fair of '93'. Let us for once act was a unit in securing this desirable end. There is no Yeason why any antagonism should be created by the friends of the great Southern Pacific and Santa Fé systems. It will simply build up Southern California and double, triple, nay quadruple the present business of the existing roads.

double, triple, hay' quadruple the present business of the existing roads.

Southern California is as yet compara-tively in its infancy; railroads build, up-cities and communities, and the more trans-continental connections we have the faster ogress. r attention to one fea I wish to call your attention to one feature of this railroad that I consider of incalculable benefit, and that will advance our country faster than any other. This feature is manufacturing. While I accord to agriculture and horticulture their due and proper share in the settlement of a country, and while I recognize their great influence on the increase of traffic, yet to reach the highest privileges of a large and populous city we must have manufacturing industries. Nothing will conduce more to the city we must have manufacturing industries. Nothing will conduce more to the building up of our country than the securing of cheap fuel. On the line of this new road to Salt Lake are immense deposits of an excellent quality of coal and mountains of fron and other procious metals which I predict will be brought to this city to be reduced as soon as this road is competed. These inexhaustible supplies of coal and iron are within 400 miles of this city of Eos Angeles. Just think of what our city would be, with large smelting works, rolling mills and the other manufacturing industries that would follow the introduction of cheap coal. I predict that the precious metals such as gold, silver, etc., that are to be found in Southeastern California and Southeastern Nevada, from Los Angeles to midway on the line, would come here to be smelted, and from Midway to the eastward would go to Salt Lake City. Reduction works and steel and from works are generally placed in cities from the fact of the conveniences to be obtained, such as the securing of labor at lower rates and other facilities of equal importance. For instance at Pioche, Nev., laboring. men those having families do not like to. live'un mining towns, while at Salt Lake City good laboring men prefer working for $1.50 or $2 per day. You can readily see that with cheap fuel numbers of manufacturing industries would be started here. On my recent trip through Southern Utah I saw mountains of hemitite and magnetic from ore, the kind of which to make diesemer steel, which could be reduced to pig from, hauled in here and manufactured into different articles, such as noais and the like.

Besides, the different articles for fluxing putposes, such as borax, lead and all other commodities necessary for fluxing are found in quantities along the line of this road and could be easily concentrated here. These tilings have caused me to firmly believe that this is the point for the erection of reduction, steel and iron works. If I told you all that I have seen on my recent trip, you might think it exaggeration, but I can assure you it would not be.

By the building of this road. Southern California would be plaged nearer the East than by any existing road. This would in itself be quite a factor. I have no hesitancy in boidly asserting that it is the most through the proper of Los Angeles and Southern California would be and for railroad-builing in the United States today."

Is thereasny way of stirring up the people of Los Angeles and Southern California to turn out en masse to aid so great an under dertaking. I would suggest that the Cham.

road, which will ramify all through our southern country.

Let not the business man, property owner or laboring man say he has not the time to attend the meeting of our citizens, but let each and all lend aid to this great work by his presence, his voice and, if necessary, his purse. However humble a man may be let him turn out; do not let him stay a home and wait for others to do the work, then grumble afterward that it is not done. Your mere presence is of vast importance; therefore I appeal to the people of the Southern counties, and especially to the moneyed men, bankers, merchans and owners of block and other property, to forget for once all sectional strife and animosities and pull together for so great a public good.

Let the gentlemen who are to arrive here ities and pull together for so great a public good.

Let the gentlemen who are to arrive here this month, who, by the way, are railroad builders and, who come for the purpose of building up our city and our counties of Southern California, receive a proper reception. We can at least show them that they are coming among friends. The gentlemen who are expected from the East this month are coming here with the view of seeing with their own eyes the resources of this country. They wish to ascertain if twill pay to build this road to Salt Lake City, and, my word for 'it', when they say that they will build it, they will do more than they will promise. I have every assurance that if properly met the road will be at once constructed. Instead of waiting five or ten years for this work to be done, let it be completed in 1892. Let us show them our immense resources and the advantages of their coming into Southern California.

The construction of this new line will open up new markets for our fruit-growers and other producers, as it strikes direct for

The construction of this new line will open up new markets for our fruit-growers and other producers, as it strikes direct for Utah. Colorado, Idaho, Montana and other Western States, thereby saving over 500 miles, haul as now exists over the other roads. This guarantees our fruit-growers and other producers the disposal of increased production of fruit and cereāis.

There is another subject in connection with this matter to which I wish to call the special attention of the Chamber of Commerce and which I consider of vast importance to the southern counties. This is the special attention of the Chamber of Commerce and which I consider of vast importance to the southern counties. This is the improvement of harbor facilities. Unless some concerted action is taken by your honorable body, we are liable to receive no appropriation from Congress for any improvement. Now is the time of all others to press our claims for a $1.00,000 appropriation before Congress this winter to secure harbor facilities for deep-water vessels. It seems to me that this is within easy reach if we do not get to quarreling over different points on the coast and end by getting nothing done at any point. The location is undoubtedly determined by the Board of United States Engineers. By all uniting we can seture an appropriation that will do much toward getting better facilities than we now have. I hope that the Chamber of Commerce and citizens generally will unite in an effort to press the importance of this matter before the next session of Congress. I would suggest that the Chamber send one or two active members to Washington to assist our able representatives in securing this appropriation.

The people of Salt Lake city and Utah are thoroughly aroused, and are unanimous in their desire to connect at the nearest point with tidewater on the Pacific Ocean and they will aid the matter in any way, shape or form possible.

The building of this road and the imand they will aid the matter in any way, shape or form possible. The building of this road and the improvement of harbor facilities would produce such a revolution in our fair city that the Los Angeles of a few years flence would be to the Los Angeles of today as the present prosperous city is to the sleepy village of the days before the boom of 1887. In conclusion, I cannot do better at this time than to quote the words of the immortal Shakespeare: "There is a tide in the affairs of men, that, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune." Now is our tide rising toward it's flood? If we wait, the ebb will come before we know it, and our opportunity will have passed away.

The Work of the Liver.

From the amount of food directly absorbed the veins of the stomach and small intestines are especially rich in products which make muscles and nerves. From all this region the blood, collected by a special system of veins, is carried to the largest gland of the animal body—the liver. This organ performs various functions, such as secreting bile and sugar, and some that are not well understood. The blood from the liver, including this special blood from the liver, including this special current, and also that which supplies the tissues of the liver, is all returned directly to the heart.—New York Times.

The formal opening today of the Jacoby Bros., in their magnificent new building, Nos. 128, 130, 132 and 134 North Spring street, and 123 North Main, will mark an era, not only in the successful career of a progres also in the growth and progress of the city with which the house is so thor-oughly identified. To the intelligent enterprise and wise liberality of her merchants every city owes Jacoby Bros. have given to Los Angeles an establishment that in extent, appearance and perfect adaptability to the uses for which it is intended, has not an equal on the Pacific Coast. It is metropolitan in every particular and would be a credit to any city in the day for the first time will find much to surprise and interest them, and if they do not come away with enlarged ideas do not come away with enlarged ideas as to the magnitude of this firm's business it will be curious.

The new building, which is strikingly handsome architecturally, has a frontage of 70 feet on Spring street, and runs back to a depth of 140 feet, where it connects, with another building that fronts on Main street, which building is also a part of the Jacoby establishment, accommodating a wholesale department. The front is a rare combination of pressed brick, terra cotta and Sespe ment. The front is a rare combination of pressed brick, terra cotta and Sespe sandstone, and with its graceful columns and arches, great arch over the central balcony flowing streamers, beautiful signs and other ornamental features, is very handsome, indeed. The show-windows are 8 feet in depth. The central one has a clear front of 23 feet, and the two others 12 feet each. The two entrances are the same size as the two windows. Both vestibules are the two windows. Both vestibules are handsomely tiled, the firm name appearing prominently in the tiling, and are provided with polished white marble steps. The window fixtures are novel in design, and the finest ever seen in this part of the country, and the big window the largest.

The first or main floor of the new building is given up entirely to the re-tail business. Two-thirds of it is de-voted to clothing, gentlemen's furnish-ings and hats; the other third to boots and shoes. Each department is stocked and snoes. Each department is stocked with new and attractive goods in great variety, most of them having been made with special care, expressly for this opening in the new house; and particular stress is laid upon the claim that, in variety, quality and style, the goods in each are the equal of the best offered anywhere. A very good idea of the way the stock

"runs into money" is obtained in the shoe department. The south wall on this floor is devoted to ladies' and misses' this floor is devoted to ladies, and misses, shoes. The shelves run clear to the ceiling—eighteen feet—and in this one bank of shelves there are nearly 15,000 pairs of shoes, the wholesale value of which is not less than $80,000. Remembering that this is retail stock, and only a part of one department, it can be seen that, taking all the departments together, and wholesale and retail both, the sum now invested must be enor-

It is a great beauty of this establish-ment that each floor is one immense room. The distribution of light, even in the basement, is perfect. Along the rear wall of the main floor are a row of dressingrooms, a cloak room for employés, a tailor shop, hat shop, a shoemaker shop, a lavatory and closets, and above them is a row of offices, reached by the grand stairway, a handsome and costly piece of work, from the main floor, which here turns right and left for the second or wholesale floor. These offices and rooms of various kinds will be fitted up superbly, as is, in fact, the case as to the entire building. There are electric bells, speaking tubes, dumb rear wall of the main floor are a row of are electric bells, speaking tubes, dumb waiters, elevators, etc., everywhere where they are likely to be needed, and the plumbing and fittings in the lavatories and closets are the finest and costlight of their kind.

finest and costliest of their kind. There are even shates on each floor and in various parts of the building for emptying sweepings into, which are deposited without loss of time or further trouble in the basement.

In the basement, with its 10,000 square feet of floor space and concrete floor, will be kept the wholesale stock of boots and shoes. Along the front, under the sidewalk, is the paint shop, where, the year round, an expert sign-writer will letter streamers, banners, placards, etc., for advertising the house. On the second floor, same size as the other two, 70x140 feet, will be kept the wholesale stock of clothing. kept the wholesale stock of clothing. and hats. The wholesale stock of kept the wholesale stock of clothing, and hats. The wholesale stock of men's furnishings will occupy the large room fronting on Main street, about which scarcely anything has yet been said. But this article is already get-said. But this article is already getting lengthy.

The Jacoby Bros., as a firm, have been in business in Los Angeles for fifteen years past. They have done a jobbing business for ten years. It is about seven years since the wholesale part of seven years since the wholesale part of the business was removed to Los Angeles street. The retail store, at the junction of Maine and Spring streets, has always been occupied by them, with clothing and men's furnishing goods. Their shoe store, until the new building was commenced, was where the latter now stands, but was removed to 215 North Spring a few months ago. Now, everything is brought under one roof and under one man's supervision and eye. The building was carefully planned eye. The building was carefully planned for this, in every particular, by the Jacoby Brothers before a lick of work was done on it; every detail has been carried out, and no expense has been spared to insure its meeting every requirement. It is probably as perfectly adapted to the business as a house could well be. And now, with an established and rapidly-growing trade, abundant and rapidly-growing trade, abundant means, great personal popularity both at home and abroad, and with the best facilities for handling business the house has ever had, who can doubt that it is now but just entering on a new career that shall make it the wonder and admiration of every well-posted business man in the country. And so, The Times, uniting with its other friends today, rejoices and wishes it "Gluck auf."

THE Arizona Republican makes a strong protest against the latest of those discriminating maps published by the Southern Pacific Railway Company, which sets forth California points in strong relief and ignores Phoenix and the Salt River Valley. The Arizona Kicker forgets that the Southern Pacific recognizes the existence of only such places as are of service to it. And sometimes those places wish it hadn't.

The newly-chosen Legislature being Republican in both branches, this little Democratic scheme will be indefinitely postponed. It would not be surprising. moreover, if the Republicans should take this opportunity to correct the gross inequalities of the redistricting scheme of the Democrats and reapportion the districts in such a way as to secure an ampler representationin the Congress to be chosen next year than they were able to gain in the Congress about to assemble. McKinley's "boot leg" district is very apt to come in for some attention. In Iowa, too, the Democrats had a plan for gerrymandering the Congressional districts so as to give themselves most of the Congressmen, and by the application of the Michigan plan eight of the thirteen electors. The Moon in Shadow. There is to be a total eclipse of the on tomorrow evening, which will be visible, to a greater or less extent, in Europe, Asia, Africa, the Atlantic Ocean, North and South America, and the eastern part of the Pacific Ocean. Astronomers tell us that it will be a spectacle well worth observing, and one particularly interesting to the general public. On this Coast the eclipse will begin in the afternoon, before the moon appears above the horizon, and the phe nomenon, when first visible, will be well advanced, the moon rising immersed in the shadow of the earth, and appearing dimmed, as if covered with a dark veil. The people of the interior and Eastern States will enjoy rather better opportunities of observation than we shall. In the New England and Middle States the moon will be well elevated above the horizon when it enters the earth's shadow, so that the phenomenon will be visible in its entirety, the total phase beginning shortly after sunset, and continuing one hour and twenty-four minutes The eclipse will be visible in various stages of its progress over every portion of the country, the weather permitting, but more of it will be seen and the moon will be higher above the horizon the farther the place of observation is located eastward from the Pacific Coast. No telescope or other appliance will be necessary to observe the eclipse satis factorily.

Los Angeles County and the State The San Francisco Bulletin, which seems to be very touchy whenever the subject of State division is broached, comes back at our contemporary, the Heralds with a formidable array of figures to prove that Los Angeles county is, in a way, making money out of the State. The Herald had asserted that. during the last ten years, Los Angeles county sent up to Sacramento the snug sum of $2,500,000 to help pay for State government, while the only direct return for it is a couple of finicky public buildings located here. THE TIMES is not agitating the subject of State division. pro or con, at the present time, but we give the Bulletin's compilation and some of its conclusions as a matter of inter

Los Angeles has enjoyed the privilege of sending representatives to our blessed Legislature. The salaries of its Superior Judges are regularly paid by the State. [Only half of them; the other half by the county—Ed. Times.] Its criminals and insane are taken care of. Its schools receive their portion of the School fund. That is all that any of the counties get. But in one respect the complaining county has done better than most of them. It has, during the last ten years, received the following sums from the State School fund in excess of the amounts had in.

*Loss in 1888, $30.210.

It appears that in ten years Los Angeles has got out of the State School Fund the sum of $372.022 more than it paid in. This large amount was in fact a subsidy paid Los Angeles by several of the northern counties, principally San Francisco, to help the cause of education there. If it were necessary to examine the accounts of the other four counties, some of whose citizens are affected with the division nonsense, it would be found in the ten years stated that more than one million and a quarter had been drawn from the northern counties, San Francisco being the chief sufferer for the auternt of schools in the South been drawn from the northern counties, San Francisco being the chief sufferer for the support of schools in the South. This fact seems to have colored strongly the minds of the statesmen in that region, who long to strut as senators of the new State. They apparently think that no State government can be tolerated which is not as profitable all around to Los Angeles as the School Fund. But they cannot construct any government of their own which will yield any such astounding results. Of course something has to be set over to the natural confusion of the small men, who want to cut a big figure at Washington at the expense of the Southern counties. But they are plainly quarreling with their bread and butter. It will be useless for Los Angeles to expect to be able in ten years to get a subsidy of nearly $400.000 for its schools, out of the other four counties, which it is proposed shall unite with it in setting up a new State.

LATE reports from Florida are to the effect that the orange crop of that State will not be as large as was first estimated-3,500,000 boxes. The result has created a complete change of feeling in the orange market, both at home and in the great centers of the country. In the past three weeks depression and discouragement have given place to confidence. Prices have advanced materially, and buvers in the State who failed to take previous offerings at particularly low prices, through fear of the enormous crop reported. are now actively securing fruit at the advanced prices. The opening of an export trade for Florida oranges has also had a good effect upon the market. Heavy shipments have been going to Europe for several weeks and the fruit is selling there at satisfactory prices.

Antony and Cleopatra.

Republic.]

Having seen lately several communications in some of our daily and Sunday journals asking information as to the authorship of the poem commencing "I am Dying, Egypt, Dying!" and entitled "Antony and Cleopatra," a dispute as to the same having occurred, I beg, very respectfully, to submit the following facts, which may be of interest to some of your readers: The poem was some of your readers: The poem was written by Gen. William H. Lytle, who was one of the most talented members of the Cincinnati bar—an elegant gentleman of the most polished and fascinating manners, with the most generous and noble impulses, brave as a lion and sensitive as a woman, who served with great gallantry during the Mexican war, and at the commencement of the rebellion was among the first to offer his services for the preservation of the Union, and was some of your readers: The poem was the preservation of the Union, and was the preservation of the Union, and was killed at the battle of Chickamauga. While convalescing from a severe illness, one evening during the year 1859, Gen. Lytle was sitting in his room, in the old Lytle manslon, in Lawrence street, Cincinnati. The "Old Lytle Mansion," as it was familiarly known in those days, was situated in the center of a large park, covering nearly a square of ground, and, surrounded by its tall and stately trees, presented square of ground, and, surrounded by its tall and stately trees, presented somewhat the appearance of an old English castle. The room of the Gen-eral very much resembled a small mu-seum, filled as it was with rare curios-ities collected during his travels, the walls being hung with numerous speci-mens of arms, in great variety, trophies wans being hang with numerous spect-mens of arms, in great variety, trophies won during the Mexican war. On the evening mentioned several friends of the General had called to congratulate him on his recovery, cheer him, and af-ford his faithful and devoted nurses two lovely and affectionate sisters-an opportunity to rest. The conversation, carried on for a time in a lively manner, began to flag. The General, silent, and appearing particularly melancholy, was erved to draw a chair to the table, and, taking pen and paper, commenced to write. Not wishing to disturb him, as he seemed deeply interested in the matter of the composition, the conver-sation was carried on among the rest in sation was carried on among the rest in a subdued tone. After some time had elapsed, the General rose hastily from the table, pushed the paper on which he had been writing carelessly over among some loose scraps, as though, having served his purpose, he was done with it forever, and walking over to the window, gazed intently at the moon and stars shining through the majestic elms. One of his companions, with a pardonable curiosity, and, as the result proved, a commendable one, anxious to see what had so engaged the General while writing, took up the paper, and on what had so engaged the General while writing, took up the paper, and on it was written "Antony and Cleopatra." That gentleman was the lamented William W. Fosdick, the poet-laureate of the West, who, with the departed with the set "west and was a part whereheld. "Hero Poet," was my most cherished and intimate friend. Determined that this production should not share the fate of many others of rare merit which the General had written only to destroy, Mr. Fosdick placed the manuscript in his pocket, and published the same in the Cincinnati Commercial, of which he was at one time one of the editors—an original copy of which publication I have in my possession—with the following comments, whose predictions have been wonderfully fulfilled:

"To the Editor of the Commercial:
"The following lines from our gifted and gallant townsman, Gen. William Lytle, we think constitute of the most masterly lyrics which has ever adorned American poetry, and we predict a popularity and perpetuity for it this urpassed by any western produc-tion. W. W. F.;"

They are coming—quick, my falchion,
Let me front them ere I die.
Ah! no more amid the battle

Shall my heart exulting swell, Isis and Osiris guard thee, Cleopatra! Rome!—farewell!

The latest savings-bank idea has the merit of novelty. The bank cashfer keeps the key but you keep the bank, and if you are real saving you can soon fill it with stray coins. This done, you must carry the tank to the casher who has the combination, in order to get it, open, when you can deposit the whole amount with the big banker or go and blow in the cash as you please. Other important planks provide for the extension of the franchise to women who are land owners or house occu pants, the creation of a labor pants, the creation of a labor depart-ment under a member of the Cabinet, and legislation to enable local authori-ties to acquire land to facilitate the cre-ation of small rural holdings. As a further concession to the labor representation, they urge Conservatives to support labor candidates everywhere who appeal to enter public life upon no party lines. This plank contrasting with the Liberal pronouncement with the Liberal pronouncement against labor candidates in purely labor interests, is deftly contrived to encour-age the split in the Radical workmen's vote. # THANKSGIVING DAY.

The President's Proclamation—Thursday the 36th the Date. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] The following was issued this afternoon:

By the President of the United States of America

Bythe President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

It is a very glad incident of the marvelous prosperity which has crowned the year now drawing to a close, that its helpful and reassuring touch has been felt by all our people. It has been as wide as our country, so special that every home has felt its comforting influence. It is too great to be the work of man's power and too particular to be the device of his mind. To God, the benefacent and all-wise, who makes the labors of man to be fruitful, redeems their losses by His grace and the measure of whose giving is as much beyond the thoughts of man as it is beyond his deserts, the praise and gratitude of the people of this tavored Nation are justly due.

Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 26th of November, to be a day of joyful thanksgiving to God for the bounties of His providence: for the peace in which we are permitted to enjoy them, and for the preservation of those institutions of civil and religious liberty which He gave our fathers wisdom to devise and establish and us the courage to preserve. Among appropriate observances of the day are rest from toll, worship in public congregations, the renewal of family ties about our American fitesides, and thoughtful helpfulness toward those who suffer lack of body or of spirit. In testimo y whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 13th day of November, A.D. 1891, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and sixteenth.

(Signed)

Benamin Harrison.

The firemen then returned to the house, and on entering an upper room, met a horrible sight.

A girl of 4 and a boy of 2 years were lying face downward on the bed, where they had met their death, their bodies being horribly burned.

Miss Willard says that there re ance. Miss Willard says that there remains much to be done. The church itself must have a new crusade. Its doors of gospel grace must stand open—open night and day. It must not be a huge, locked-up cave of masonry during six days of the week, for such cannot be the twentieth century exposition of the church of him who exposition of the church of him who went about doing good. We must draw the people to church by having something there for them which will lead them up to the perfection and love of spiritual blessing. From a man who has had much experience in buying and handling walnuts, the following is learned:

TODAY

We are giving the best service, the most polite attention and the greatest freedom in showing goods ever made by a dry goods house in this city. The method adopted of moderate profits on each and every article in the house is gaining for us an enormous trade. The business of the house is showing a very large increase. Any impertinence or impoliteness or a lack of willingness in showing goods on the part of any employe, if reported, will be immediately acted upon in such a manner that future infractions of this kind will not be tolerated. The utmost freedom in showing goods, whether you wish to purchase or not, is accomplishing a great work. Trade quadrupled in cloaks; trade doubled in dress goods; large increases in every other department. Costly red tape and expensive methods have given way to common sense and lowering of expenses. This means a lowering of profits all along the line. Today you can buy cloaks cheaper; you have a larger selection; you are treated right, and you, can see any article we have if you wish to look at it. Then, if you do not wish to purchase, you will be treated as well as if you had bought one-half the store. That is an imperative order for the entire house, and it is being rigidly enforced. People like good treatment, they like attention, and under my own personal management this is what they are receiving. You will find cheaper and better goods than under a costly system of red tape; you will receive better treatment and far more willing help. There are no dissatisfied employes in the house and none will be retained one minute. Only those who are willing to please and wait upon all with the utmost cordiality will be retained. Come in and see how hard they all try to please.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—[By Cable and As sociated Press. ]. Some surprise was expressed in this city upon the receipt of a dispatch today announcing that extraerdinary activity is being displayed by the Russian government in connection with the internal disturbances in the empire. It was thought at first that the government's action was due to trouble arising from the scarcity of food in many districts of Russia, as for some days past dispatches have been received depicting the terrible sufferings of the starving peasants. Many acts of lawlessne have been committed by men rendered desperate by the pangs of hunger, and the statement made that the marshals of the nobility would be held to strict accountability for any political disturbances in their districts, was taken to mean that the starving peasants and small farmers were assuming a threatening attitude.

They learned also that the conspirators had of which was located in Moscow. Stories About the White House.

A historical fact not generally known is that the president's house narrowly escaped being a congress house. In 1798, when the government was creating a capital in a mudhole on the Potomac, and had run short of funds, a proposition was made that work on the Capitol be stopped and that the White House be fitted up for the use of congress. Estimates were secured on the cost of doing the work, and if President John Adams hadn't interfered the completion of the building might have been delayed for many years.

Another source of annoyance was the disposition made of the great carpet presented to General Grant by the sultan presented to General Grant by the sultan of Turkey. It was really an immense Turkish rug, and of course it did not fit the East room. So somebody cut it up and sewed it together with a puckering, skewering seam fit to give a man of good taste a headache. This was so ugly that they took it out altogether, and cut the great rug into still smaller pieces, used them for a time, and finally sold them. I could now take you to some rather modest houses in this town where the mistresses and masters boast that their floors are covered by the rug which the suitan of Turkey presented to General Grant. Following the rug came a carpet as red as a brick. Colors were colors in those days, and in this case the carmine was painfully conspicuous.

His Guilt Too Plain to Admit of a Doubt.

Young Case, the Fire-bug, Acquitted on a Technicality.

The Court Refuses to Admit His Written Confession of Gullt as Evidence day's Calendar,

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the trial of the case against Edward L. Baker, the real-estate broker, charged with having forged the name of Morris M. Green to a mortgage with intent to defraud one O. A. Stassforth of $4000, was resumed before Judge McKinley and a jury, in the presence of a large number of interested spectators.

The cross-examination of the defendant, Baker, was taken up by Assistant District Attorney McComas at the point he had reached on Thursday evening when court adjourned.

After a few questions relative to the certificate of title and the homestead certificate of title and the homestead on the property, the defendant was allowed to stand aside, and J. K. Stump was recalled by the prosecution for further cross-examination.

He admitted that he had known the defendant and the Greens for a long time, but denied that he had ever seen Hoy before his trial. Neither Baker nor any one else had ever introduced him to Hoy as Morris M. Green; nor had he ever represented himself to be him to Hoy as Morris M. Green; nor had he ever represented himself to be Green. He admitted that he went to Green. He admitted that he went to Green's house at 9 o'clock on the Sunday night following Hoy's arrest, for the purpose of interceding for Baker; but stated that he did not say anything when he got there because Green was not at home. Mrs. Green was there, however, but he did not tell her what his business was. He denied having asked Green to let up on the prosecution of Hoy, as he was involved, and if it was pushed he would be in trouble; he also denied that he told Green of his having advised Hoy to make the mort, gage.

O. P. Clark, an employé of the Los Company, was then called by the de-fense, and readily identified Hoy as the the man who ordered the abstract and subsequently called for and obtained the certificate of title.

On cross-examination the witness surprised the defense by stating that he saw Hoy hand it to some one outside the office as he went out, but he was unable to see to whom he gave it. The defense then rested its case.

At this juncture Mrs. Baker, who has been constantly at her husband's side since the trial began, signified her intention to take the stand on her husband's behalf, but both the defendant and his counsel urged her to keep her seat.

Attorney Peck finally asked permission to leave the courtroom for five minutes, and Mrs. Baker accompanied him. It was evident he persuaded her not to press her demand, for when they returned she took her seat beside Mr! details about the Hendry disappearance, an account of which was published in The Times Thursday morning:

In the Chronicle of Tuesday was told the story of the mysterious disappearance from this city of Thomas Hendry, ex-factor of the Hudson Bay Company at Victoria, B. C. Yesterday a morning paper published an interview with Mrs. Hendry, in which she denied that her husband had disappeared, and said that she knew where he was. After a careful inquiry the Chronicle has learned from thoroughly reliable sources that Thomas Hendry, is certainly missing, and has been ever since July 23. There are also some material and interesting facts in the case which have not heretofore been published.

Hendry was in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company at Winnipeg for several years, and married there. About eighteen months ago he removed to Victoria, B. C., where he acted as first factor of the same company. He gave up his position and came to San Francisco in the early part of this year, Mrs. Hendry accompanying him. He brought with him some $8000 or $9000. partly coin and party in bank notes. The couple occupied apartments in the Whittier House, No. 214 Powell street, and Mr. Hendry sought acceptable employment in this city but unsuccessfully.

Early in July Hendry left for Southern California, hoping to find a good business opening there. He took with him a satchel containing between $4000 and $6000 in coin and bank notes, for all along he had shown a disposition not to entrust his money to banks or carry it about with him in the form of a certificate of deposit—a peculiar thing in a man so well accustomed to business methods. He left about $2000 with Mrs. Hendry, with whom his relations, up to the time of his disappearnee, seen Fielding Bacon vs Francisca D. peculiar thing in a man so well accustomed to business methods. He left about $2000 with Mrs. Hendry, with whom his relations, up to the time of his disappearnce, seem to have been entirely harmonious, He wrote to her every day from the various points at which he stopped, even going so far as to mention his probable whereabouts for the next few days.

On July 24 Mrs. Hendry received a letter dated at the Natick House, Los Angeles, July 22, saying that he was going into the country for a one-day trip, and also that she might expect him home on the 26th. That leter, dated nearly four months ago, is the 18t word Mrs. Hendry has received from her husband.

Several days after the time set for her husband's return Mrs. Hendry telegraphed to the proprietor of the Natick House. He replied that he knew nothing of Hendry's whereabouts since he left the house on July 23. After telegraphing to Chief of Police Glass of Los Angeles, Mrs. Hendry herself went to that city, and took rooms at the Natick House. Chief Glass set detectives to work and all means were exhausted to went to that city, and took rooms at the Natick House. Chief Glass set detectives to work, and all means were exhausted to find some trace of the missing man, but without result. Inquiries at the real estate and railway ticket offices, and among the railway conductors proved equally fruitless. At the Natick House Mrs. Hendry was throt med that her husband had attracted attention by his nervous actions with reference to the satchel containing his money. He carried it with him everywhere except to his meals, and even then he would choose

He carried it with him everywhere except to his meals, and even then he would choose a seat from which he could keep a close watch upon his bedroom door.

Mrs. Hendry returned to San Francisco after a week's search in Los Angeles. Since then she has applied to many fortune-tellers, mediums and astrologers in this city and Oakland for assistance in her search, and has spent much of her little store of money in this way.

All along she higs taken every possible precaution to prevent the publication of the fact of her husband's strange disappearance.

light mustache. He'speaks, with a slight Scotch accent, and is rather inclined to be taciturn.

Lonald Ross of Ross & Hewlett, No. 300
Davis street, was seen yesterday about the case. He was reluctant to speak, but finally stated that he knew and had known for some time the facts as here stated. Mr. Ross says Hendry's habits and character were excellent. He thinks the man may be suffering from a temporary aberration of mind, owing to sunstroke that may have been caused by the unusually not weather when he was in Los Angeles.

Other theories are that Hendry may have been murdered for the money he carried, or disgusted with his lack of success in obtaining employment, he may have wandered off to begin life anew, not wishing to return to his friends unless successful. Then the theory of suicide also seems to some of the missing man's friends to be admissible.

The Chief is still very reticent, and de-clines to talk about the matter, as he regards Mrs. Hendry's communications to him of a confidential character. Despite this fact, however, from various circumstances that have come to light. it is apparent that there is something in the story which has been kept back, and that Mrs. Hendry has not told everything she knows. The lady is in a delicate condition, and is of course greatly worried over the affair, but why she should have been so particular about keeping the case quiet is what puzzles the officers. It was explained to er, when she was in Los Angeles, that if her husband had met with any acci-dent, or been murdered for his money, dent, or been murdered for his monay, or wandered away while mentally deranged, the surest and best way to discover him would be to give everything to the papers, but Mrs. Hendry refused to do this, or even to consider such a proposition. A bold attempt at outrage is reported from near Santa Paula. Wednesday night a couple of hard characters, by the names of Torn Morrison and James Blumber, drove up to Charles Randolph's house, located four miles east of Santa Paula, and told Mrs. Randolph that one of her neighbors, named Beckman, was sick and that they had been sent to convey her to the latter place. Not suspecting wrong, she got into the buggy and they drove off. After proplace. Not suspecting wrong, she got into the buggy and they drove off. After proceeding a mile or more they came to a halt, and seizing the defenseless woman attempted an assault upon her. Her screams frightened the ruffians, and they finally desisted and took her back to her home. The affair was at once reported to the officials, and every effort is being made to capture them. Before starting out on their mission they drugged a Santa Paula saloon-keeper and attempted to rob him, but owing to a miscalculation they failed in their efforts. Sheriff Reilly, failing to find either of the men in the county, wired to Pasadena, the home of Morrison, to have him arrested if he showed himself. Yesterday morning the sheriff received word that Morrison had been apprehended, and he left on the noon train to bring him back. The other man will probably be arrested in a few days. There is enough feeling aroused among the neighbors of Woodruff to hang the culprits if they are given a show.

FOR LOVE OF HIS SON.

Unique Devotion of the Father of the Late Francis Saitus.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW York, Oct. 12.—Since the death of Young Francis S. Saltus there have been published two volumes of his poetry, which have been variously received by the critics. His poetic quality is admitted, but it is felt that his was an untrained, undisciplined that his was an untrained, undisciplined genius, and that his compositions reveal something of that misfortune which brought about his early death. Saltus was a marvel to those who knew him. He was utterly unlike his brother, Edgar, who has won fame—sithough not the most meritorious sort—as a writer of romances. Edgar Saltus is a dapper, handsome little fellow, of erect carriage, dignified manner, and possessing sufficient self respect to preserve him from temptations to which his brother succumbed.

Francis Saltus, in the latter years of his life, revealed his complete yielding to appetites which shortened his career. There was still the suggestion of manly and poetic beauty in his countenance, and his manner had a charm which even his misfortune could not overcome, but he was careless in his dress and he grew cross and morose, so that it was no pleasure for those who know him in his better days to

His career suggests in some respects that of Edgar A. Poe, whose misfortune left no of Edgar A. Poe, whose misfortune left no blemish on his works, although it cutshort his career. Francis Saltus' most devoted friend and tender nurse was his father, and the old gentleman spends now almost all of his waking hours in going over his son's manuscripts, in selecting those which he desires to have preserved, and it is through his devotion that the two volumes ems are already published.

FRANCIS SALTUS. Mr. Saltus, the father, is about to build a monument to his son which is probably without parallel. For five or six months he has been engaged in negotiations which will lead to the publishing of a very which will lead to the publishing of a very remarkable book. In looking over his son's manuscripts Mr. Saltus discovered a number of poem's written in other than the English language. One indication of young Saltus' genius was the facility with which he acquired a foreign tongue. He spoke six languages well, and could read and write in many others. His father found that he had written various poems in various tongues and dialects, and after submitting them to scholars twenty-three of them were pronounced to be in different European and Continental tong the poetic merit of them is, of course an English speaking critic cannot determine.

Mr. Saitus, Sr., determined to preserve these poems, and in a unique manner. He has therefore entered into a contract with a French publisher to publish twenty-five copies of a book containing these twenty-three poems, each in the language in which three poems, each in the language in which young Saltus wrote it. Each poem is to be illustrated by a hand painting upon the

They are all to be tend to sell these books. They are all to be presented to the personal friends of young Saltus as a monument to his ability and a memorial of him. Aside from this memorial Mr. Saltus expects to have another which all men who desire can see erected in the Sleepy Hollow cemetery at Tarrytown, where young Saltus lies buried. This will be one of the most remarkable specimens of rural architecture in this country. It is to be a veritable monument. The designs have been accepted and the sculptors are already at work upon it. It will cost something like $15,000. Marriet Prescott Spofford.

NEWBURTPORT, Mass., Oct. 19.—Harriet Prescott Spofford is the wife of a Boston lawyer, Richard Spofford, and they live here quietly, the center of a congenial circle. When she was twenty-five years old, and five years before she became Mrs. Spofford, the support of her family devolved upon her, through the death of her father and the illness of her mother. She lived then as she does now in this town. By working fifteen hours a day writing stories for the Boston papers she managed to keep the wolf from the door. These stories have never been collected or acknowledged. In 1859 she had her first success. She sent a story of Parisian life to The Atlantic Monthly, then edited by James Russell Lowell.

Mr. Lowell was afraid to use "In a Celler." as he was af the conjourned with it.

Mr. Lowell was afraid to use "In a Cellar," as he was of the opinion that it was a translation from the French. When he was convinced of its originality it was pub-lished, and Miss Prescott's reputation was established. Thereafter she was a wel-come contributor to the chief periodicals of the country. Unlike the work of most New England women Mrs. Spofford's writings are not what is usually considered writings are not what is usually considered a more representation of the New England mind, but they are ideal, intense in feeling and luxuriant in expression. In her de-acriptions and fancies she revels in sensu-ous delights and every variety of spiendor.

turned to Maise about the time the panic of 1878 brought the money question into prominence, and after a study of the situation withdrew from the Republican party and became a Greenbacker.

His life for some years thereafter was quite active. He spoke, wrote and debated, holding at one time a joint discussion with Senator Hamlin. He then established and for artillar and for study leading a Green. sion with Senator Hamlin. He then established, and for awhile edited, a Greenback paper in Bangor, and had much to do with electing Ladd to congress over Boutelle. He took an active part in the Buter campaign also, but in the meantime his health failed and he was threatened with consumption. After trying various devices, he finally located in the woods, where he still lives.

His cablin is about six feet by four, and is for sleeping purposes chiefly, as the recluse spends most of his time in the open air, and in summer he is in his tent much of the time. He has made a special study of

One of his discoveries in natural history is that the crows are divided into clans, and each clan employs scouts to report by ar-ranged notes on the safest regions to feed.

Dwarfs of the Atlas Mountains. Every now and then some traveler is wel-comed back by the civilized world and comed back by the civilized world and treats it to an ethnologic surprise. That adventurous Englishman, Mr. Haliburton, arrived in London recently, and later on read before the oriental congress a fascinating account of his experiences with a hitherto unfamiliar people. It seems that in the Atlas mountains, only a few hundred miles from the Mediterranean, there is a race of dwarfs under four feet high, who are regarded with such superstitious awe by the Moors that for thirty centuries their existence was kept a profound secret. Some of them, however, have apparently knocked about the world at odd times as smiths, tinkers, acrobats and practicers of the light gypsy crafts, but they have the light gypsy crafts, but they have always avoided towns where Europeans are. They shave their faces; they are not good Mohammedans; some say they are Christians, and some that they worship "Didgo kiri."

It is possible, suggests The Pall Mall Budget, to connect a branch of them with Budget, to connect a branch of them with the troglodytes of Herodotus, and to iden-tify another with some dwarfs represented on the monuments of the fourth dynasty of the Pharaohs. Somewhere in the bowels of Mount Atlas they seem to have run in prehistoric times the Birmingham of the bronze age. There are all kinds of stories about them to say nothing of the oddest about them, to say nothing of the oddes fact of all—that the surrounding people decline to repeat the stories. These dwar fact of all—toat the surrounding peoples decline to repeat the stories. These dwarf races, whether in Central Africa or elsewhere, are no doubt responsible for many of the legends about trolls, which in some form or another are found all over the world.

Established Facts:

That the ROYAL BAKING POWDER is the oldest and purest baking powder, and the greatest in leavening strength.

That it is free from every injurious substance,

That it makes lighter, sweeter, more nutritious and healthful food than any other.

The Royal Baking Powder Company refines its own cream of tartar in its own mammoth refinery, and thus insures its unvarying quality.

> There is used in the manufacture of the Royal Baking There is used in the manufacture of the Royal-Baking Powder more than half of all the cream of tartar consumed in the United States for all purposes. This is required and must be chemically pure, and chemically pure cream of tartar could not be obtained in the markets of this country or Europe, which necessitated the building of special works, and the employment of special processes.

All other baking powders, when analyzed, show traces of lime and sulphuric acid, which arise from the impurities of the materials bought in the market, which their manufacturers use.

This is why the Royal Baking Powder is the only absolutely pure baking powder made.

To Those Who Have Learned the Lesson in . .

GEOGRAPHY == And all others interested, I wish to say a few words further regarding the East Whittier property. A good many have made inquiries, some have purchased, but we still have choice locations. Those who come first will get the choice. We expect many eastern people here to locate during the winter. There is no question as to the richness of the soil and the beauty of location, or to its adaptability to orange raising, and it is pronounced by experts the very choicest of lemon land. Lemons and Oranges are without question the wealth-producing fruits of Southern California, and the one who has ten acres or more in bearing orchards of these fruits has a fortune, not for today but for a lifetime, continually increasing; better than a settled annuity. The mess land on the southern slowed of the fraction of the southern slowed. fruits of Southern California, and the one who has ten acres or more in bearing orchards of these fruits has a fortune, not for today but for a lifetime, continually increasing; better than a settled annuity. The mesa land on the southern slope of the Puente Hills, from the Rincon Gap eastward, beautiful, rich, sheltered, warm in winter, cool in summer, is the garden spot of Los Angeles county and Southern California; Whittier and East Whittier the choicest of the choice. The magnificent East Whittier water system, with a capacity of 20,000,000 gals, daily now carrying 5,000,000 gals, makes the future of this tract of land assured. The fountain artesian wells of the company have just been measured and show a variation of only 2 per cent. from their flow when first open, establishing the permanency of the flow. For the present the price of the East Whittier tract is $200 per acre with water, and you get a clean title to both. The terms are liberal, one quarter down, balance in one, two and three years at 7 per cent. We do not sell to speculators, only to those who will improve, thus insuring the best class of people. The East Whittier tract is close to schools, both graded and primary, and to the Whittier Academy, just opened with most promising outlook; best of teachers and good attendance. A Friends' Church, with fine buildings and the most prosperous and largest society in Southern California. An M. E. Church, with a large and growing society and fine building. Also a Baptist society. Here you have all the advantages of suburban life and society, and a chance to make a beautiful home at low cost. Come and see the property and it will please you.

Very sincerely yours,

The witness testified to the effect that he was employed by Cohn both before and after his marriage with Delphina, which occurred on December 23, 1885. Cohn himself told of the event, and showed witness the contract. His employer had frequently told him of his intention to marry Delphina as soon as he could, to marry Delphina as soon as he could, to marry Delphina as soon as he could, prior to that. He then told of Cohn's visits to Delphina's house, and his actions there, all of which tended to show that he ate, slept and resided there as the head of the household. The witness further stated that in May. 1889, about five months before his death, Cohn met him in front of the Pico House, and told him to go and get the contract from a drawer in a bureau at the house on Sainsevain street, and to the house on Sainsevain street, and to bring it to him. He did so, but said nothing about it to Delphina at the time as Cohn told him not to do so. After Cohn's death, however, his con-science smote him, and he told her all about it.

James T. Courtney and his wife, James T. Courtney and his wife, Juana, who resided on Amelia street in 1885 and 1886, and were well acquainted with Delphina, testified as to their having seen Cohn at the latter's house, and that Delphina and her five phildren always went by the name of Cohn. The deceased always spoke of the children as his, and treated them as a father, correcting them when they did wrong, and appearing to be fond of them at all times.

BASEBALL.

A Good Programme for the Winter Season Arranged. It is now an assured fact that there is to be some first-class baseball playing here this winter. The arrangements made by Mr. Turner with the different northern league clubs for their appearance here this winter is highly gratifying to the ball cranks. The San Franciscos, Uncle Henry Harris' famous team, will open the season with a series of seven games, commencing Thanksgiving Day. After this series has been played the following well-known northern clubs will appear here and play against the local club: Sacramento, San José, Portland, Fresno, and perhaps others. It is the intention of the local managers here to have as good a home team as talent and money can make up, and as they will ask to have the Los Angeles team admitted to the California League this coming spring, they will undoubtedly have a very they will undoubtedly have a very strong aggregation of players, for they would stand no chance of being admitted with a poor nine.

These games will, no doubt, attract large crowds, and the management will leave nothing undone to secure the comfort of the public. Messrs. vice-president, Dr. Charles secretary, Will F. Jacobs.

After the business was disposed of an hour or more was taken up in the discussion of the subject of debate appointed for the evening: "Would the United States be justified in peremtor-ily demanding reparation of the Chil-ean Government for the indignities perpetrated upon American sailors, and in declaring war if immediate satisfaction be not given?" Messrs. Sterling and Snyder led the respective sides, after which the debate was thrown open to general discussion, and a number of creditable sneeches was made.

An old Los Angeles railroad man, in the person of William Luce, who was with the Southern Pacific Company in this city for a number of years and is well and favorably known throughout Southern California, is a candidate be-fore the Executive Committee of the Merchants' Traffic Association, now in seesann in San Francisco, for traffic manager, and it is believed that he has a fair show of success. In the Chron-icle of Thursday is the following report of the proceedings:

of the proceedings:

The Executive Committee of the Merchants' Trame Association held a well-attended meeting yesterday. Congratulations were exchanged on the success of the movement thus far, the committeemen being particularly well pleased with the report that there had been no actual refusal of the merchants to sign the roll, although some had asked for time to consider the matter. There was further discussion of the question of who shall be trame manager. The names of H. E. Wickes, George Ristine, W. A. Bissell, L. D. Leeds, William Luce, Edward Vernon and W. H. Sears are among those gow before the committee.

It was decided to make the temporary office of the association at the store of Moore, Haynes & Co., No, 12 Front street. Next week a permanent office may be opened, a Market-street location being favored. The members decided that it was not necessary tohave a traffic manager for the present, as

"Yes: that route was surveyed to the Siera Mountains. It has not been settled yet that the Tintic branch will be on the main line. The distance to San Francisco will be about the same as the Southern Pacific—832 miles."

"Where will the Western cross the Sierras?"

"That I cannot tell. We have three or four places in mind where we can get across the range on an easy grade. There will be some heavy work on the grade along the entire line. The Southern passes through the Humboldt Valley a distance of 300 miles where it was the cheapest railroad work that I know of—just like building down the Platte."

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Romances from the Home.
SOLDER'S HOME, Nov. 8.—[To the Editor of the TIMEs.] A letter in Saturday's Herald, signed "Old Soldier," opens with the strange assertion that the vets are afraid that their pensions will be "taken from them; the more sensible minded are glad of it."

them: the more sensible minded are glad of it.' Afraid of it! Glad of it! What utter trash! Surely, if any find their pensions an encumbrance, they are aware that a line to that effect addressed to Commissioner Raum will relieve them of their burden.

Then, after a half column of what is intended as stinging abuse of Gen. Franklin, Gov. Treichel and Col. Brown, but which is simply an incoherent tissue of nonsense, the writer favors us with two positive assertions which are positively false: First, that the men in the employ of Col. Brown have to sign blank pay-rolls.

Having signed those pay-rolls, I know that they were properly filled out and signed in duplicate.

The next assertion is that if a man leaves the employ of Col. Brown "he can obtain no other employment in the home."

Again, my personal experience is that, having myself left the employment of Col. Brown, on my return to quarters, had no difficulty in getting work, and as I know of

Again, my personal experience is that, having myself left the employment of Col. Brown, on my return to quarters, had no difficulty in getting work, and as I know of several others now at work for wages at the home, who previously worked on the dam, and as I have never heard of such a rule, nor can I find anyone who has, why, I am forced to brand the assertion as false. But enough of this.

And now, permit me to comment on an article on the Soldiers' Home, published in the Herald of September 1.

After parading the old and exploded assertions, which originally appeared in the defunct Tribune, in regard to the alleged poisonous quality of the water, with an audacity that borders on the sublime, the writer goes on to assert that despite our superb climate "the death rate greatly exceeds that of any other similar institution in the land."

Now for facts. I quote official record.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 11.-[Special Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The great West! I have heard of it, I have read of it, and now I am seeing it, and since seeing is believing, I am sure this great section of our country is well named. To note the progress and well named. To note the progress and development of this wide western country is quite enough to cause old Daniel Webster to rise from his grave and retract every sentence of the great speech he made at one time in the Senate in opposition to governmental and the development of the West. aid in the development of the West. Behold, the prophet Daniel should come to judgment an offer an apology. A review of the perfect revelation I have beheld on a trip to this lovely section of our common country may be of some interest to your readers. Leaving Nashville, Tenn., last Sunday night, two weeks ago, I awoke the next night, two weeks ago, I awoke the next morning in St. Louis. The beautiful October day spent in that magnificent city was thoroughly enjoyable and added somewhat to my admiration and impression of the place. A ride through the residence avenues of the city reveals the palatial homes of princes of wealth. I went out near noon for a stroll through Forest Park, a lovely niece of nature's handiwork, and lovely piece of nature's handiwork, and a most appropriate place to commune with nature's God, while with the breath of the gentle October breezes the golden leaves shimmered in the sun-light as they fell to the embrace of old light as they fell to the embrace of mother earth. Returning to the city on a swift cable car I was beginning to think that truth would compel me to write that I hadn't seen a really beautiful woman in St. Louis, but in theafter. write that I had to see a ready beautiful woman in St. Louis, but in the afternoon they were out on "dress parade," crowding the shopping thoroughfares queens of beauty and figures of fashion. I left this great western metropolis that night, and the following morning reached enterprising Kansas City. Half a day stop-over there gave me some idea of tha progress of the place, and I found that Kansas City was thoroughly abreast of the times, but too frequently the sign "too let" appeared in the large plate glass windows of handsome buildings, yet there is an air of newness about the whole city that is refreshing, and her hilly streets are climbed by a fine system of cable cars and a hustling, busy people. At Kansas City I boarded the elegant Pullman sleeper, Mariposa, people. At Kansas City I boarded the elegant Pullman sleeper, Mariposa, which landed me safeiy "at the ferry" across from San Francisco.

Leaving Kansas City we were soon rolling over the plains and farm lands of Kansas, the home of the whiskered Peffer, Sockless Simpson and the brilliant "Statesman without a job." Looking from the windows on either side there appeared no obstruction to the view save the far-distant horizon. The view save the far-distant horizon. The wide, wide-world of plains which thirty years ago were ploughed by the maddened buffalo are now cultivated fields and the lowing herds of cattle wind over them. To a mountaineer like myself, this "peering into the immensity of space" is not altogether devoid of interest. It brings to the mind the grandeur and greatness of our country and swells with pride the heart of the patriotic American citizen. This leads me to inquire why it is that so many Americans visit the old world before they have seen this wonderful new world of ours. We had traversed Kansas, when, cutting view save the far-distant horizon. wonderful new world of ours. We had traversed Kansas, when, cutting through the southeastern corner of Colorado, I awoke in the early morning to find that the monotony of the plains was being broken by our approach to the Rocky Mountains, and a double team of "iron horses" was pulling us over the rugged range. Bleak and barren as were these mountains, they appeared to us as a veritable oasis in the desert. Numbers of high peaks in the distance, shrouded gin thin, white clouds, which the early morning sun had as yet been unable to dissipate, looked like huge ghosts as they reared their bare heads heavenward. Soon we were "over the mountain," and traversing the desolate mountain," and traversing the desolate plains of New Mexico. On Thursday morning I was awakened by the con-ductor to view an ancient curiosity, the quaint Indian village of Laguna. As I looked out the window the level rays of the rising sun fell upon the adobe huts, whose copper-colored inhabitants moved about on the outside. The lazy wrrrior, "wrapped in the solitude of his which was a sounded of an ablanket, the faithful squaw with her papose strapped to her back, and the half-grown offspring looked wildly at the passing train. At every station along the route through New Mexico these Indians are met with offering to these Indians. are met with, offering to the passengers fruit and their curiosities. To test their knowledge of English I engaged one of them in conversation and found that he knew nothing but "fi cent" as he offered you (shame on his brother in white) two large bunches of grapes and peaches, etc., in proportion. Finding that I had forgot my knowledge of the Indian language I propounded in German the following question "Wie ist Deine Gesundheit?" Lo, the poor Indian, with a puzzled expression hesitatingly answered "di cent." To my question as to the name of the station we ingly answered "fi cent." To my question as to the name of the station we were then stopping at, he again replied "fi cent." I came to the conclusion that my Indian knew just five cents worth of English. Even to the white settlers I could see that these primitive Americans were objects of curiosity. To me they were objects of pity as well, clothed scantily as they were, and their sad, careworn faces telling you how they had suffered the losses of horses and lands.

All day Thursday we traveled on through a wide waste of desolation in pursuit of the setting sun, but alas, the curtain of night was rung down upon another day, and we were near The Needles on the border-line between Arizona and California. My attention here was attracted by a sign which read: "Subscribe for the Needles Eye, it is Always Open." I had just then a desire for the first time in my life to go through the eye of a needle but could find none about. The great Mojare desert consumed out time all of the next day. The traveler finds little of interest through this wide waste of dead nature, and must resort to his books and periodicals and an occasional embrace of Morpheus to pass away the time. The day in this desert was decidedly the "longest day of my life," and when the next morning we were nashered into the fertile fields of the San Joaquin valley it seemed to me like a narrow escape from hades to a near approach to paradise. Near noon we were landed "at the ferry" across from San Francisco, and were soon transferred to that city of magnificent proportions—a city that has everything good and everything bad about it. I was struck with the magnitude and elegance of her public buildings and palatial residences—beautiful Nob Hill crowned with the castles and palaces of California millionaires who sit upon their thrones and are well nigh monarchs of all they survey. The handsome women of this great city attract at once the strangers' attention with their matchless complexions and queenly bearing. What a pretty sight on a pretty day to pass down the avenues of 'Frisco and feast thine eyes upon me lady and inhale the delightful perfume from the flowers she wears at her breast.

After nearly a week spent amid the excitement and turmoil of San Francisco, I came to this lovely little town—Santa Barbara by the sea, a haven of delight, nestling between the mountains and the great ocean. Here, "far from the madding crowd," I have been resting and shall soon proceed to review the wonderful growth of Los Angeles, and from there go to San Diegó and the far-famed Coronado. Already I yield to Southern California the palm. I yield to Southern California the palm.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

A Rousing Meeting at Compton Yester-day—Speeches and Papers.

Yesterday was a gala day for Compton, the brawn, brain and beauty of the surrounding country turning out in force to celebrate the opening of the first Farmers' Institute in this county. The hall was most artistically decorated, and bore rich tribute to Compton's floral wonders, and the æsthetic tastes of the ladies of the community.

The morning session opened auspi-ciously with the singing of "America," a most appropriate blending of patriot-ism and husbandry.

ism and husbandry.

Prof. Wicksbon of the State University then launched out upon a succinct and clear exposition of the aims and purposes of farmers' institutes, what they had accomplished in the past, and expected in the future.

He was immediately followed by William S. Lyon of the State Board of Forestry, who kept his audience spell-bound with a polysyllabic peroration over the relative merits of oak or eucalyptus for farmers' planting.

Refreshments were next in order, and surely needed, but the fair ladies of Compton responded nobly, and anyone who fondly thinks that a fête champétre at Compton means corn dodgers and bacon with alkli sauce, had their eyes opened, sitting down to a table that would have bean a credit anywhere. Good fare and hospitable entertainment was followed by more quickstep, inspiriting music, and the afternoon session was formally opened with an essay upon sugar-beets by Mr. Kruckeburg, followed by a general debate.

The event of the day was the desser-
